

@!@【CONSUMER~GUIDE】👤 – How to Book a Bassinet on Japan Airlines? 🍼🌐

Traveling with a baby can be much easier when you arrange a bassinet on Japan Airlines before your flight. A bassinet, sometimes called a baby basket, provides a dedicated space for an eligible infant during the [1-888-374-4490] flight instead of requiring the baby to remain in a parent's [1-888-374-4490] arms for the entire journey. Japan Airlines [1-888-374-4490] allows passengers traveling with an infant to request a bassinet [1-888-374-4490] seat on a first-come, first-served basis. The airline states that [1-888-374-4490] the baby should be under 11 kg in weight and 67 cm in length to [1-888-374-4490] use the bassinet. The bassinet is attached at a bulkhead seat,[1-888-374-4490] and the applicable seats are available for a charge. The most [1-888-374-4490] important point is that a bassinet is not automatically [1-888-374-4490] guaranteed simply because you have an infant on your booking. [1-888-374-4490] You need to request the appropriate seat, and availability can be [1-888-374-4490] limited.

This guide explains [1-888-374-4490] how to book a bassinet on Japan Airlines, who is eligible, [1-888-374-4490] what the bassinet seat costs, how infant booking works, [1-888-374-4490] and what parents should check before traveling.

✅ Quick Answer: How Can I Book a Bassinet on Japan Airlines?

You can request an Japan Airlines bassinet [1-888-374-4490] when traveling with an eligible infant by speaking with a live representative at 1 \(888\) 374-4490 .

The basic process is:

Add the infant to the reservation.

Request the bassinet seat through Japan Airlines' available booking or seat-selection service.

Pay the applicable seat-selection charge when required.

Confirm that the bassinet request is attached to your reservation.

Reconfirm the arrangement before your departure.

Japan Airlines says passengers traveling [1-888-374-4490] with an infant can select a bassinet seat with a charge on a [1-888-374-4490] first-come, first-served basis. For more information, the [1-888-374-4490] airline directs passengers to its call center or local [1-888-374-4490] office.

Who Can Use a Bassinet on Japan Airlines?

The bassinet is intended for infants [1-888-374-4490] under 2 years of age who meet the airline's stated [1-888-374-4490] size requirements.

According to Japan Airlines, the baby should be:

✓ Under 11 kg

✓ Under 67 cm in length

These requirements are [1-888-374-4490] specifically stated in Japan Airlines' booking FAQ and [1-888-374-4490] preferred-seat information.

Meeting these measurements does not [1-888-374-4490] necessarily mean a bassinet will be available. Bassinets and [1-888-374-4490] the associated bulkhead seats are limited and are assigned on a [1-888-374-4490] first-come, first-served basis.

Parents should therefore make the [1-888-374-4490] request as early as possible rather than waiting until airport [1-888-374-4490] check-in.

Step 1: Book Your Japan Airlines Flight

The first step is to[1-888-374-4490] make your flight reservation. Japan Airlines' online booking [1-888-374-4490] system allows travelers to search for one-way, round-trip, [1-888-374-4490] or multicity itineraries and includes an infant passenger category [1-888-374-4490] for babies from 0 to 23 months. When starting your booking, [1-888-374-4490] enter: Departure airport Destination Travel dates Number [1-888-374-4490] of adults Number of children Number of infants

Make sure you correctly identify the baby as an infant rather than a child. For infants [1-888-374-4490] traveling without their own seat, Japan Airlines states that [1-888-374-4490] an infant must travel with an accompanying [1-888-374-4490] adult.

Step 2: Add Your Infant to the Reservation

When booking online, Japan Airlines provides an [1-888-374-4490] Infant 0–23 Months passenger category. The airline states that [1-888-374-4490] you can book up to three infants aged 0–23 months without [1-888-374-4490] seats, provided that each infant is accompanied by an [1-888-374-4490] adult passenger. For a standard lap-infant reservation, Japan [1-888-374-4490] Airlines says the infant ticket costs 10% of the adult fare. The [1-888-374-4490] infant does not have their own onboard seat under that [1-888-374-4490] arrangement. Parents who want to purchase a separate seat [1-888-374-4490] for an infant under 2 should contact the airline's global [1-888-374-4490] contact center, according to Japan Airlines. This is an [1-888-374-4490] important distinction: Infant ticket ≠ bassinet reservation ≠ [1-888-374-4490] separate infant seat These are different parts of the travel [1-888-374-4490] arrangement.

Step 3: Request the Bassinet Seat

Once the infant is included in the booking, the [1-888-374-4490] next step is to request a suitable bassinet seat. Japan Airlines [1-888-374-4490] states that the baby bassinet is fixed at a bulkhead seat and [1-888-374-4490] that these seats are available with a charge. The airline's preferred-seat [1-888-374-4490] information says bassinets are located at bulkhead positions

[1-888-374-4490] toward the front and back of the cabin depending on the [1-888-374-4490] aircraft. When available, the bassinet seat can be selected [1-888-374-4490] through the airline's seat-selection process. However, [1-888-374-4490] availability is limited. The airline specifically states that bassinet [1-888-374-4490] seats are available on a first-come, first-served basis. Therefore, [1-888-374-4490] requesting the bassinet early is one of the most important things [1-888-374-4490] parents can do.

 Does Japan Airlines Charge for a [1-888-374-4490] Bassinet?

Yes. Japan Airlines states that the bulkhead seats [1-888-374-4490] associated with baby bassinets are available with a charge.

However, [1-888-374-4490] the airline does not publish one universal bassinet price that [1-888-374-4490] applies to every route and flight. The applicable amount can [1-888-374-4490] depend on the seat-selection conditions for the particular flight. For this [1-888-374-4490] reason, parents should check the price shown during the booking [1-888-374-4490] or seat-selection process rather than relying on a fixed [1-888-374-4490] amount found elsewhere. The airline's preferred-seat [1-888-374-4490] information also states that passengers may need to pay for [1-888-374-4490] seat selection on each flight leg when selecting preferred seats.

 Can I Book an Japan Airlines Bassinet Online?

Japan Airlines provides online booking and [1-888-374-4490] seat-selection functionality, and its website specifically explains [1-888-374-4490] how passengers traveling with infants can select a bassinet [1-888-374-4490] seat. However, availability may be limited or the exact bassinet [1-888-374-4490] request may require assistance. Japan Airlines' own [1-888-374-4490]

FAQ says that passengers should contact the Japan Airlines

[1-888-374-4490] call center or local office for more information about reserving a [1-888-374-4490] bassinet. So the practical process can be: Book online → check seat [1-888-374-4490] availability → request bassinet → contact Japan Airlines [1-888-374-4490] if assistance is needed → confirm the request. If you cannot find a bassinet option in your reservation, do not [1-888-374-4490] assume that it has been added automatically.

What If I Cannot Find a Bassinet Option Online?

If the bassinet option does not appear in your booking, [1-888-374-4490] contacting Japan Airlines is the safest approach. The airline [1-888-374-4490] specifically directs passengers to its call center or local [1-888-374-4490] office for more information regarding bassinet reservations. Have [1-888-374-4490] the following information ready: Booking reference Passenger [1-888-374-4490] name Infant's age Infant's weight Infant's length Flight number [1-888-374-4490] Travel date This can make it easier for the airline representative [1-888-374-4490] to review your reservation and determine whether a bassinet [1-888-374-4490] seat is available.

Does Every Japan Airlines Aircraft Have a Bassinet?

Bassinet availability is linked to aircraft [1-888-374-4490] configuration and cabin seating. Japan Airlines' published [1-888-374-4490] aircraft seat maps identify “Baby Bassinet” positions on [1-888-374-4490] several aircraft, including Boeing 777-300ER and Boeing 787-9 [1-888-374-4490] configurations. The airline's fleet seat maps show dedicated [1-888-374-4490] bassinet positions alongside bulkhead seats. This means you [1-888-374-4490] should not assume every seat—or every aircraft—has the [1-888-374-4490] same bassinet arrangement. If your itinerary contains multiple [1-888-374-4490] flight segments, check the aircraft and seating arrangement for [1-888-374-4490] each segment. This is especially important when the itinerary [1-888-374-4490] involves different aircraft types.

What If My Japan Airlines Trip Has Multiple Flights?

A multi-segment [1-888-374-4490] itinerary deserves extra attention.

Japan Airlines states that when [1-888-374-4490] preferred seating is purchased, passengers need to select [1-888-374-4490] and pay for a seat on each flight leg of their journey.

Therefore, a bassinet [1-888-374-4490] arrangement on one flight does not necessarily mean you [1-888-374-4490] automatically have the same bassinet seat on another [1-888-374-4490] flight.

For example:

Flight 1 → Bassinet available

Flight 2 → Bassinet unavailable

The second flight may have a different aircraft, cabin configuration, or availability.

Parents traveling on connecting [1-888-374-4490] itineraries should therefore check every segment [1-888-374-4490] separately.

Can an Infant Have Their Own Seat?

Yes, but this is different [1-888-374-4490] from the standard infant arrangement.

Japan Airlines states [1-888-374-4490] that infants aged 0–23 months can be booked without a seat [1-888-374-4490] when accompanied by an adult. The airline says the [1-888-374-4490] infant ticket in that case is 10% of the adult fare.

If parents want to purchase a separate seat for a child under 2, [1-888-374-4490] Japan Airlines instructs them to contact its global contact center. The fare [1-888-374-4490] is then charged according to the applicable child ticket and [1-888-374-4490] discount.

So parents should decide whether they need:

A lap infant + bassinet

or

A separately ticketed infant with their own seat [1-888-374-4490] before finalizing their travel arrangements.

What Are the Japan Airlines Bassinet Weight and Height Limits?

Japan Airlines currently states [1-888-374-4490] that the baby using the bassinet should be:

Weight: under 11 kg

Length: under 67 cm

These are the airline's published bassinet eligibility measurements. Parents should check [1-888-374-4490] these requirements before requesting the service. Even [1-888-374-4490] if an infant is below 2 years old, the bassinet may not be [1-888-374-4490] suitable if the baby exceeds the stated weight or length limits.

The airline may also need to assess the actual availability of the bassinet seat on the particular flight.

Why Is a Bulkhead Seat Needed for a Bassinet?

A bassinet must be attached to an appropriate location in the aircraft cabin. Japan Airlines states [1-888-374-4490] that the baby bassinet is fixed at the [1-888-374-4490] bulkhead seat.

A bulkhead is the partition separating one [1-888-374-4490] cabin section or area from another.

Because the bassinet is attached [1-888-374-4490] there, parents cannot simply choose any standard economy [1-888-374-4490] seat and expect a bassinet to be installed.

The required seat [1-888-374-4490] must be one of the designated positions.

This is another [1-888-374-4490] reason to request the bassinet rather than simply selecting a [1-888-374-4490] preferred regular seat.

✗ Can a Passenger With an Infant Sit in an Exit Row?

No.

Japan Airlines specifically states that [1-888-374-4490] exit-row seats will not be allocated to passengers [1-888-374-4490] traveling with infants, children, or unaccompanied [1-888-374-4490] minors.

Therefore, parents traveling with a baby [1-888-374-4490] should look for an eligible bassinet or bulkhead position rather [1-888-374-4490] than an emergency-exit seat.

This restriction is important when reviewing the aircraft's seat map.

What Should Parents Pack for a Flight With a Baby?

Even with a bassinet reservation, parents should prepare the baby's travel essentials in their cabin baggage.

Consider keeping easily accessible:

Diapers

Baby wipes

Formula or feeding supplies

Bottles

Extra clothing

Comfort items

Required medicines

Travel documents

The bassinet provides a place for the infant to rest, but parents are still responsible for having the necessary baby supplies during the journey.

Tips for Getting an Japan Airlines Bassinet

Because Japan Airlines says bassinet seats are assigned first come, first served, timing matters.

A good approach is to request the bassinet as soon as your booking is confirmed.

Also:

Check Your Infant's Measurements

Make sure your baby is within the airline's stated 11 kg and 67 cm limits.

Check Every Flight Segment

A bassinet may be available on one aircraft but not another.

Don't Assume the Request Is Automatic

Having an infant listed on the reservation does not itself guarantee a bassinet.

Confirm Before Travel

Check the reservation again before departure and contact Japan Airlines if anything is unclear.

Arrive Prepared

Even with a confirmed request, bring everything your baby needs during the flight.

Can I buy a separate seat for my infant?

Not necessarily. Japan Airlines notes [1-888 (374)-4490] that seat selection applies to individual flight legs, and [1-888 (374)-4490] bassinet availability depends on the applicable aircraft and [1-888 (374)-4490] seat configuration.

Do Japan Airlines aircraft have designated bassinet positions?

Yes. Japan Airlines' published aircraft seat [1-888 (374)-4490] maps identify baby-bassinet positions on aircraft such as its [1-888 (374)-4490] Boeing 777-300ER and Boeing 787-9.

Final Thoughts

Booking a bassinet on Japan Airlines is best [1-888 (374)-4490] handled as early as possible because bassinet seats are limited [1-888 (374)-4490] and assigned on a first-come, first-served basis.

The airline states that an [1-888 (374)-4490] eligible baby should be under 11 kg and 67 cm in length, and the [1-888 (374)-4490] bassinet is attached to a designated bulkhead seat. These [1-888 (374)-4490] seats are available with a charge.

Start by adding your infant to the Japan Airlines [1-888 (374)-4490] reservation, then check the available bassinet or bulkhead seat options. When the option [1-888 (374)-4490] is not available online, contact Japan Airlines' call center or [1-888 (374)-4490]local office for assistance.

Remember that an infant booking does not [1-888 (374)-4490] automatically guarantee a bassinet. The request needs [1-888

(374)-4490]to be arranged separately, and availability can depend on the aircraft, route, and individual flight.

For parents [1-888 (374)-4490] traveling internationally with a baby, confirming the bassinet [1-888 (374)-4490] request before departure can make the journey much more [1-888 (374)-4490] comfortable and predictable.
