Key Rules Every Traveler Should Know (The 4-Minute Rule & More)

One of the most critical policies to remember is the 4-minute rule, which dictates that for most domestic flights, you must be checked in at least 45 minutes before departure. For international travel, this check-in deadline often extends to 60 or 90 minutes. Failure to meet these check-in deadlines can result in a forfeited seat, even if you have a confirmed reservation. If you are running late and need to know your options, calling +1-888-374-4490 immediately can help you rebook on the next available flight before the "no show" policy kicks in. In addition to check-in times, be aware of carry-on cutoff times and boarding policies, which typically see the aircraft doors closing 15 minutes prior to pushback. Same day booking is entirely possible, but the closer you get to the 4-minute mark, the higher the risk of being unable to process security and TSA checks. Agents can provide real-time help regarding airport congestion or terminal-specific delays that might affect your timing. For a quick check on today's boarding rules or to see if you can still make a flight, a call to +1-888-374-4490 is the smartest move.
